I wanted to briefly explain some things that have been ongoing since last year. Over the last year, it is when issues began in regards to astrology orders. After around 3 years of successful for many people, and even life saving service for many of you. I thank you all.

However the real issues pertaining to these were a bit deeper, which I will explain as much as possible without violating any sensitive details of mine, nor those of anyone.

As many of you here know, I always worked with the higher purpose in mind and with highest integrity. After years I realize why most people choose to do anything but that. It costs a lot to someone.

In 2017, I was told by Satan in the Eve of Beltane, that if I did not act, the JoS would be no more in 2019. Everyone saw what happened during these next years. I took a sacrifice of my own blood [metaphorically] to give blood to the JoS and keep it alive despite all difficulties. This was a means to this. I essentially told HPS Maxine I was going to take the situation in my own hands, immediately got the OK.

This required financing, technical knowledge, time, effort, continuous work and nothing happened on it's own. Then people will be like "Yes a miracle from Satan". Of course it is - but miracles in our side of reality happen from our own hands, and not by the wand.

I was attacked heavily and beyond understanding for these decisions and all these decisions to help this, according to the enemy "accursed multitude" of people. It's all very uphill to walk towards.

Since I am not exactly pro just asking for stuff, I decided to provide services in exchange for things. HPS Maxine instantly gave me the OK to proceed. However she warned me of the dangers and how I would have to face the enemy.

I made an assessment of risk ratio and when it comes to JoS and it's safety or future, the risk ratio is something I don't care so I decided to take all the risk. Despite of her warnings about overworking, the enemy, or what this could cost me, I had to act.

My endeavor and fighting against these tides were great and the set the precedent for the success of the next years, at least that of the JoS. This came at a personal detriment. However the enemy was too late as I already had stirred the foundation of the house by the time they took action.

This doubled my toil, sacrifice, and hard work, but cost nobody else nothing. Now it's tripled so I can't take more than that, because simply these are the human limits.

Except of costing endless time, tiredness, and unending hours of work, to me. Never minded the returns because all of this would take no logic for anyone to follow. I am glad this helped a lot of people and know in turn many of the things exist today because of this.

No logical human would do this and I understand this very well now. Regardless of this, Satan understands and I am a zealot when it comes to Satan's demands. I am no stranger to ultimate personal sacrifice. But this is never good for whomever is doing that. Actually it is a disaster as I look at it now. It is also incompatible with doing what is good sometimes.

As if the above was not enough, and since I managed to pull through regardless, then the enemy decided to pounce on this endeavor and finish off the capacity of the payment processor. Everyone knows why (((these things happen))). There are many "people" who are in for "Satan", few that will put their wealth, name and life into this.

While this may sound insane, there is actually an extreme amount of people who have been destroyed because of this application of "Payment Processor" and related Banking policy. It is also enforced and contains no middle lines. No explanations given, however this was deductible, repetitive, and highly problematic. I knew the enemy would cause financial attacks and I expected this.

I had others but due to legal and other knowledge circumventing this at least for the time spectrum where to stand was needed, was successful.

It only takes a few willing kikes and they can rob places out of business. I know this may sound weird but if you want the details of this just google "Paypal Chargeback" and see how they have destroyed the businesses of many tens and tends of thousands of people by abusing these mechanisms. They do this to musicians, digital goods traders, and many other people.

I was shocked to see that they get away with these things doing these to millions of people. Also, during the "Co-Vid" they literally shut down all their support department, to where nobody could call or get in contact with them.

Another thing they do, is they manipulate people into debt, and do everything in their power to restrain their enemies due to lack of funds. Jews are obsessed over stealing the shekel of the goyim.

The above disallows me to continue providing service through the so called Paypal and acted as a total deterrent that made me disgusted to even want to contemplate continuing on with astrology or online business in general. It felt like this was simply too much wasted time, energy and effort - for nothing personal.

Since everything in the last year got robbed and stolen from me with account closure in an unexplained fashion, followed by a full year of unresponsive support, which case if I was to even appeal would cost tens and tens of thousands.

This also illustrates the pointlessness of what we refer to as "Law" today. You need tens of thousands of shekels to appeal to get back your own stolen shekels which may be way less. You can't appeal goyim and then they steal everything randomly.

Then you need more shekels to get back your own shekels, and more debt to get more debt. Get in debt to find your rights, goyim. It's like inception and the jews know these techniques so well.

Then I thought how many I have helped, and how this was a necessary stepping stone to fortify matters for a couple years, and I softened my approach again, decided to continue on and off. So I tried to push and push, and see if it would get me anywhere. Well no it didn't.

The above had reverberations in my life, work, and above all, time and energy consumption to the point I found myself in a lock-down situation where I had to choose between my health and basically self-frying with unforeseen consequences with all the responsibilities on my hands.

I decided to not allow frying to happen. I can't say that the decisions I had to make were easy, but they were always the best with what was available at the time.

Life is different when you actually have to deal with the enemy everyday and physically. There are many things that we have sacrificed about ourselves that nobody will ever know. Only a couple of us have went all the way in in this. The rest were just making posts and watching on the sidelines. Others made the big sacrifices that risked their life for this. Others just point little worthless fingers not having done anything. This is how life goes. Some people build, others watch.

Unironically, most of those who attempted to oppose this, were shills, agents of the enemy, and traitors from the inside. I was viciously attacked over this and I know I did the right thing. They insisted none of this was "necessary", because this already planned out by the enemy years ago, "The yahoo groups were enough" and "the free forums were enough" according to them. A little while later everything was "Coincidentally" nuked.

One year later as if by "Coincidence", all the JoS got besieged and everything almost disappeared entirely, like a total wipeout. But evil me of course had prepared a few things and this is why I will be universally hated by these people, because they hate it when the goy manages to build out from the ruins.

None of these can however bear fruit because Satan can see it all. None of it succeeded and those involved were removed and eliminated. But the thing is most people don't stick their heads out for Satan, and those that do, do in a kosherized manner, which is without any issues.

As time progressed, and the enemy's attack heightened, they also tried to destroy this place from the inside, while the certainty of censorship and lack of fundamentals, would have us gone forever. An increasing amount of shilling showed itself during this time. As the kingdom was to burn, so did those on the inside suddenly were leaving the town, all of a "sudden".

When I told this to HPS Maxine, she knew it was the case, and I decided to take this personal sacrifice to save Satan's only real place of dwelling on this earth. Eventually, I was fought to no end for this - but I won in the end, and we have emerged so far, intact and grown. High Priests are to make personal sacrifices, not to just write bullshit online. Few to none have done any of this or had the guts to do so.

The good news are, that the enemy is a dollar and a time short of thinking they managed to dissuade me and/or harm anyone's capacity to gain readings. Understandably their motives were fully destructive and to create a situation of ruin and discontinuing to provide help for SS.

I have therefore decided I will be issuing refunds in the close-by future, but not through Paypal, but rather, through Cryptocurrency.

Now given the Trillion Dollar Valuation Banking System in 2008 fucked billions of people, and stole billions of wealth in a banking crash, pensions, homes, and debts - giving people nothing but a single buck, I decided I'll fight my way through to actually refund people instead. I'm that evil of course listen to my enemies over that, they have many lies to tell you.

Anyhow, I kept silent on this as I understood the enemy would be on me like a mad dog as per usual and this would impede me from solving the matter. I was also thankful because the counsel of some Satanists was able to help me considerably through this extremely difficult time.

Now that it's too late for them to stop anything, I decided to write about this.

I know some people may be saddened that I will not deliver more work upon work upon more work, but the thing is I can't die off over this, and it became really clear the enemy wants to cause energetic, financial, and otherwise collapse.

Regardless, I will be doing what is necessary to finish off all remaining owed things. The things returned will be basically what one ordered, and it will be in an equivalent of cryptocurrency. I will relate the details of how this is going to happen in an upcoming post.

I'll also set up a specific e-mail for the refunds when their time is to happen, because my professional one has been spammed to nothingness and finding any e-mails is closely impossible.

E-mails must include:

Title - "Pending Order"

Paypal transaction number -

Date on which the order was made -

Total cost of the actual readings -

These will be cross verified to avoid any inferiors to try to scam as they have done before.

Lastly I am aware many of you, despite of affected cases, do love the readings and understand their deep quality. I am glad I helped so many. I am also even more glad and thankful people understood through this whole ordeal and many were so patient.

In this case I promise in the future I will consider providing again, after I finish this cycle of closure with all that has happened. Got to start anew with this endeavor and definitely NOT in the way it was being done before for the aforementioned reasons.

This will also give the ability for re-ordering in the future, but from now on I'll do a limited intake and output, rather than having everything open.
