

Why the New Services Aren't OUT Yet

Post by HP. Hoodedcobra666

Wed Oct 25, 2017 2:16 am

As I have been receiving mails in regards to the above for my provided Services, people are aware there are some new readings that I will be launching in the close-by future. The fact they exist on the site is because I had to do the update, because if I left it for sometime later, I wouldn't have the time.

Due to massive responsibilities, and a pile of more work that hasn't been completed yet with orders, and other delays included, I had to postpone and postpone all the time. Originally I intended to update back in February this year, which may sound ridiculous, but I didn't have the time. So no further updates were made.

But this kept piling up regardless. Now, the workload is going into control.

I have been working for two months now, interruption after interruption, to catch up with everything and I am close to finishing with this. I have a few people who have waited too long. For this I have to apologize. The patience our family has shown has been outstanding. This I appreciate and it helps me to keep up with this all.

I am working on the delivery of everything. Few setbacks were unintentional. My limits were reached, but if this hadn't happened, then I wouldn't know more functional ways to proceed in the future. Which will affect positively all the services and updates from now on.

After this, new readings will be launched that will be helpful for everyone.

Also, having learned from mistakes now and better time management, the services will be quite improved. But for all of this, I need first to catch up.

Just be patient for the time being.

Thanks to everyone who has supported this endeavor until now, through thick and thin. One last note, last year I have given out some few coupons, which will be able to be used in future readings for some discounts, for customers who had put big and/or special orders.

<http://www.josmarket.org>

- High Priest Hooded Cobra 666