

Soul Immortality and Afterlife (Follow Up on Last Post)

HP Hooded Cobra 666

April 11, 2017

I wanted to write this in supplication to the other post.

The thing is, who you are right now, and your existence, relies on you, erm, existing. In the same way that your body, without the life, the causality of life out of it, 'dies'; the soul works in a similar way.

There are quite a few forces in the planet. For example, we have nature first and foremost. Nature has her own, automatic, universal laws. With enough power, these can be bent, controlled, or directed. After all, we are part of nature, whether we like it, or respect it or not.

The idea that we exist outside of nature is highly abnormal. We are part of her, forever, no matter where we go. There is no reason to "Not" be part of nature, anyway. Only the enemy says that somehow, the natural world, and existence is pure flat out evil.

Now there are other ways, same as in life, as unto death, one can end up as.

Let's take a normal person. They never meditated, they never did many things, hardly ever gave a damn about religion. This means that largely, in this person's Soul, there is no strong xian programming. Their Soul isn't going to end up in the borg, most probably. Even the enemy knows that these souls try to 'escape', or they otherwise reincarnate on their own, by natural dictate. This is a natural thing.

Now, we can have all sorts of other outcomes, really, infinite. The astral is a really malleable place, and things are more easily changed than in the material realm. Another example is when a person dies, they cannot immediately understand that they are dead because they are actually hanging into the astral, and their mind only understood the physical. In short, they are trapped there for a while, and they don't understand what is going on.

It would be a fallacy to state that there is 'one size fits all' because there is not. Each soul, in accordance to who someone was when they were alive, so it happens in the afterlife.

A radical Islamic devout person, is not going in the 'afterlife' where 'everyone else does'. These stupid and animal-like souls are harvested, and so as into life, they are cattle, so they will be at death. They go to where their soul is in tune with. To whatever crap they call 'allah' and whatever that thing means. And surely, they will not meet the promised virgins.

Then, we have other things. There are many xians and others who are deeply ingrained with the enemy ideology, and they accept even the most extreme things, such as that they are going to die in hellfire for disobeying jews. This sort of thing can be created as a metaphysical reality, and they will experience it.

This is why some people when they have 'near death experiences', they actually see hellfires and all these things because their soul is caught into this unnatural level of existence that the enemy has artificially created for them. They have also created this destiny for themselves, in a sense.

Now, every person with knowledge of the occult, you can 'intervene' in nature's work of reincarnation. This is necromancy. For example, the Ancient Egyptians knew that the Soul could also die, or even be lost. The person has to meditate and they have to go and find the Gods, who take care of them, and reincarnate them.

Because the knowledge is lost, the Gods come and reach to Spiritual Satanists and other Souls who are devoted to them, even if they don't follow the strict 'book' in that sense. This is also the case for Hindus and other people who treat the Gods with respect. The Hindus are also aware that the Gods also reward people with better lives, help them advance, and many other things.

Unfortunately, much of Hinduism has been destroyed by Pisslamic and Jewish conquest. Unlike the hoax that the Soul was some immortal thing that never dies, or some other gibberish, they knew the Truth, and the Egyptians and all others did too.

The Egyptians also talk openly that the soul has to be protected (in the same way people do their aura, for example) and that the Gods have to take care of the Soul because there are 'dangers' out there. Most of which may be actually very strange. The Ancient Egyptians were also aware of the alien enemy as well and what harm this can do.

In other words, in the 'natural' process, other forces can intervene. For better or for worse. These also have to do with one's condition. "Sobek", symbolizing of ignorance, could actually consume the spirit. One's ignorance can be their undoing, if there is extreme spiritual denial, or even complete 'close mindedness' in regards to the afterlife.

If one is CONVINCED they will not exist after they die, to the point of COMPLETELY believing in this, and superimposing this on natural follow up after death which is to live in the astral level, maybe the astral, which is malleable, will follow suit... Scientific approach should be agnosticism, not this crap that the enemy pushes on a DEFINITE NON-EXISTENCE after death. This is not 'inquiry' or open mindedness; we live in a universe in which many things are secret, and unseen.

This is why many 'spiritual' practices in the suicidal east have people meditating for their death, and wanting to die, or other fancy things about how 'dissolving' your existence is 'liberation'. They eventually get dissolved, so they get what they ask. And bye bye forever.

If the soul is left unworked for many lifetimes, it eventually, since the immortal part of it is inactive, return back to the nothingness of which it came.

The only immortal part of the Soul was the "Spirit". Now, the Spirit is a very tricky thing. The spirit is the Kundalini energy, not the person themselves. As thus, the 'immortal spirit'. If people have the Kundalini serpent or its energy in the Soul, this is like plugging a power-socket in your soul. The word of Candle comes from Kundalini, meaning the wick of fire basically. Which is what keeps one's memory 'alive'.

The Kundalini was given to us by Satan, so that the individual spiritual life-form (nature's intention for evolution) doesn't perish. This keeps you from dying, and keeps you 'undying' in the astral. People who don't do any advancement (rising completely is not necessary, but one needs to have soul energy to survive, for example), they have to reincarnate, and if they do not, they may as well die over extended periods of however many years they can withstand.

In short, the soul is not 'immortal' unless it's made strong by meditation, and it can be damned in one way or another. When people do death spells, this is based on this matter, for example. Even meditating for small amounts of time guarantees that your Soul will be great off for the transition.

Spiritual Satanism focuses on real, eternal life. Not death, neither the running of death, and fear mongering in regards to death. Knowledge dispels illusions and false fears.

It's not other beings that will save your Soul, it's YOU that has to save it. Our Gods just help people, guide, assist, even help us spiritually, but they cannot do all the work for us. We save our own souls.

To say some funny things like "The soul is immovable" or other things, is funny, especially for people that know of the occult. This meme of 'you are immortal already goy, don't worry at all just pray to jewsus' is for people that have no spiritual insight. When one gains insight, one understands the depth of the spiritual crimes committed by the enemy.

Listen to the Ancient Teachings, but not solely reading them, looking deeper into experience. Do not rush. Check them and check again when you advance. The more you advance, the more the veils will lift. And you will understand more.

The Ancients knew all of these things; everyone did.

Therefore, they put extra emphasis to make people spiritual while they were alive, so they wouldn't have such issues in death, and also, so that they could reincarnate properly and flawlessly. The Gods and the spiritual skills attained in life, could be used as self-defense in death, and also to ward off the fear of death, etc.

Then, one could have quality reincarnation and keep existing and advancing, until becoming immortal, stopping this vicious circle, and advancing into next levels of spiritual evolution.
