Spiritual Satanism is based around the power of the soul and life. In contrast to all enemy religions, which are only programs for enslavement, and come into making people slaves and nothing else, Satan preaches freedom, knowledge, individuality, and upholding the spirit and person.

Over the years, all sorts of worthless bullshit has been posted on this forum, dissuading people from advancing in their lives and other projections of limitation. This was deliberate and from the enemy. The enemy has had people here, and they send people to all of these places and organizations that threaten them, who promote corrosive values and essentially are given a mission to keep people stuck, worthless, and in particular advancing to nothing.

Fundamentally, the above is nothing but the regular program of jews for the brains of the Gentiles, to destroy them and weaken them. It is intolerable for Satanists to accept any of this.

One needs to escape far from the understanding that life is sinful, or to be avoided. Sure, there are negative and unhappy things about life, and life is far from a perfect song. The point of Satanism is to exist and to advance, and do whatever one can to elevate themselves and empower themselves.

As it's the nature of empowerment, this does not create negativity, but rather, positivity. The enemy promotes misery, doom, and weakness in people. This makes people evil, full of grudges and resentment, and makes them really unhappy. This then sets the ground for disaster, social and otherwise, and because the drives of people are crushed and not understood, an unnatural and highly evil society.

Four things are fundamental for the so called "Salvation" of the Soul, which is basically, a stupid and overused term. In order for the soul to fill itself and be able to ascend to higher levels of consciousness, there are needs that have to be achieved in one's life, which will in turn feed the soul.

While the enemy and many idiots constantly preach of humans to wither away and die, Satan and the Gods preach to people to live. This living is fundamental. It is not about fiction or about some philosophy. This is about fundamental workings of the soul and how this relates to the external environment, and why we are here in the first place to exist. Humans were meant to live and to exist.

There are four pillars for a fulfilling life that have to do with nourishing the soul. Each of these pillars, if unmet, or improperly worked upon, can result in the soul having to reincarnate again and again, until it eventually sorts out all of these issues pertaining to its advancement. The mastery of these four pillars in the external world, will also support the person to be able to achieve and/or comprehend life in-depth, and therefore, be more capable of achieving the Magnum Opus.

These physical actions and attainments do reflect, in their respective fashion, important phases and workings of the "Great Work", and this has to do with nourishing the soul. As Thoth's famous statement goes, "Live Your Life and You Will Never Die". This post is to explain what this actually means and what is the point of it, and what to nourish in the soul.

The four important pillars of self development are these:

1. Spirituality. Those who are not spiritual and do not meditate, will be forced eventually to reincarnate. This corresponds to self-consciousness and realization. Everyone who meditates here understands this as self-evident. Also, here is education as an included factor. We could call this a general understanding of the "beyond" forces of the universe.

2. Love. Now this is a little bit weird one may think, but one must not worry, because this is flexible. One has to encounter love in their life. This can be with a partner, a person one loves [children, or whatever], Succubi or Incubi, or a purpose or mission they have fallen in love into. This can include adopting a child, experiencing love as in protecting an animal shelter, and generally, the experience of the emotion of love. Part of this can also be erotic love. The feeling of love is going to teach the mind on the deeper level to understand the workings of union, which are important for the Magnum Opus.

3. Wealth. Wealth can be spiritual, intellectual, but also it has to be physical. Wealth, in primary example, is what sustains life and the cultivation of life. This is not about becoming one of Forbes top 100, but it's about "efficient sustenance". Food, drink, and consumables that promote health and longevity, are good for this, and deal with the issue of sustaining the body and acceptance of the nourishing form of nature and from the environment. Matters of sufficiency rely on this category, and the understanding of abundance and being supplicated for. This understanding correlates to the providing factor of the soul.

4. Accomplishment. This can be a little difficult to explain as well because the best word for this is to call this a "Manifestation of one's purpose", or the "Dharmic" principle. This includes something that someone does, which has had an effect in the lives of others, and has affected them. It could be from creating something small which other people can benefit, or creating a family unit, all the way to becoming a public official, or a great scientific discovery. This "purpose" is affected out of one's karmic disposition and one's own choice. The "range" of its effect is not as mandatory, as is the purpose of actually doing this, which nourishes the soul with the understanding of its own capacity to create.

The success of the above deals with metaphysical invocation of specific basic practices that will guide a soul in a more sustained form. These correspond to the consciousness behind the 4 pillars of the Soul, and in effect, the whole body and mind web of understanding.

As Satanists, it is a duty for everyone to be able to engage in deeper understanding of these forces, and to be able to enliven and advance one's self in the above areas.
