"Thank you, as always your timing is fantastic, I really needed this, this helps a lot both in understanding what is happening to me right now as well as understanding what to do from here.

I also had a wrong understanding of the number 6, I thought it was somewhat negative."

Well, 6 and 7 are not really negative. However, they both deal with reaping what you sow.

Most people violate the laws of these two numbers, which is cause and effect. As they live their life in ignorance, stupidity, avoiding reality, and so on, the laws behind these numbers come at a vengeance, as the laws of cause and effect. This makes people hate them as they hate consequences.

A typical situation of an ignored 6, is for example refusal to take medicine over an illness, or allowing a chronic illness to expand itself. Eventually, it can come back to swallow you whole. The opposite manifestation of the 6, is to take a daily approach towards health and wellbeing, which in turn will eliminate many illnesses and lead to health.

Alternatively, number 6 and 7 can be blessed numbers for people who for example, clean the soul and manage their own life properly, as they will always give to people the justice of "what you reap, is what you sow".

The 6th house in astrology is based on this - what you do daily, and your habits. Are your habits only things that waste you around? Then you will live a life of waste, and the laws of the number 6 will reassure this.

Are your habits great, you go to the gym, or meditate daily, or study daily, do you work to get your food at the table? Rest reassured, the lord of the 6 will reward you your share, especially over time. Knowledge, power and understanding will grow, and there is nobody that can take this from you, because the 6 has to do with labor that also goes back to others and back to yourself.

On a more spiritual level, the number 6 is two times three, and has to do with applied spirituality, and meditation. But applying it on a habitual way, such as daily. This, over time, generates the positive effects, starting from the negative cleansing of bad energies at first, but ending in the positive cleansed states.

The 7 is one step beyond this, as it's 6+1. The 1 here also has to do with us, as individuals. The 6 has many other meanings than what related above, but the 7 is where this work we have been doing on ourselves starts to meet other people, or the 7th house in astrology. These can be people that we are related to.

As you will see in our present world, many people cannot maintain friendships with other people, or friendships or relationships are becoming ever ephemeral. People do not stick together to one another. They leave their dreams and convictions and so on, go and wither away, because they didn't hold on them [6 plus 1].

The number 7 has to do with purification of the soul, but also, the same mechanism has to do with the dirt on the soul. But the effects are the final effects of this. To relate to the above, our own dirt, drama, stupidity, or kindness, goodwill and understanding, will always affect other human beings that we associate with. This will affect our relations with others.

The 7 also has to do with compromise, or how we connect to other people in a way that involves both of us. As one can expect, every relation that involves more people, friends, family etc., requires a form of placing one's self among them.

Nowadays we are told the foul shit that we must never "compromise" and never try to be fair, and to only look after ourselves, and that we are the center of the universe and so on. Non compromise is a situation to follow with enemies or toxic people, where compromising can be deadly or a disaster.

This notion is based on the sign of Libra, also connected with the number 7 and the scales, justice and fairness. The number 7 is where we encounter the reality of other people for better or for worse. This is reflected strongly in spouses, partners, husbands, close friends, business partners and so on. One aspect of this that is the important one, is the friends and connections in our life that matter, or that we would like to matter.

In the same way, this can be reflected in our karma and our life, and in many cases, this can be unavoidable. The people who generally do well in that regard, can have a blessed life and nothing can really take this from them, but the people who strongly insist on bringing ruin everywhere they go, the 7 delivers this law of return. The number 7 is rather unavoidable.

Due to their nature of being "unpleasant" to humans who are immature, these two numbers have been extrapolated as non-positive or in a sense, "unlikable". The 7 as everyone knows is also the 7 chakras, so this relates to your more general notion of destiny, purpose and karma.

Lastly, the enemy has used these numbers, such as how they used the 6 and so on. That is because they know what you know by reading this post, and they wanted to try to even their own accounts in order to manipulate people, but also since these deal with necessary advancement. Their use does not invalidate the eternal notions of these numbers, nor what they do can alter their "essence".
