Due to the severity of the inhumane laws that are being heaped on in my country and many more freedom/privacy strangling laws on the way. I've started taking this a lot more serious now but I've also suffered attacks: such as someone from the US who has a strong support for the CCP (whether this is a meme or not) attempting to sign into my steam account and receiving a message from the bank asking me to input a number to approve a transaction at 2 this morning when I was asleep...

While this is extremely irritating it gives me a sense of happiness (not sure how to describe it) that I am contributing and making an impact alongside all of you.

KEEP UP THE RTR'S EVERYONE, THESE FUCKS ARE FEELING THE IMPACT OF OUR RTR'S

People will of course start taking this seriously when the police and anything else will beat people up in broad daylight, or when drones will be spying from your window with 5G "through the walls" beams and software.

If we reach into these levels, there will be no escape. Now, there is a very broad way to escape, both personally and as a world. But this is getting narrower for the oblivious masses, and will remain broad for the people who take the path right now.

The whole idea of the Gods here was to tell us early so that we do early, to minimize the upcoming damage.

Those who don't do their end in this or remain oblivious, are only digging a grave for themselves and for humanity. By the end of this decade many will be enslaved, others will become a resource, and others will already be living in a digital prison without any escape. The joy many people thought being oblivious brought them, will be overturned.

Most people on the planet are sitting on their ass and they cannot do much about this, since they are solely physical beings without any amount of major power.

Why can't they do anything while they are sitting on their ass? Because all they did was sitting on their ass. Illusion builds upon illusion.

The Gods have foretold, affected, and influenced many people to see the enemy's ongoing plan from their respective level of understanding. For many people, it's very low. Others of course, will conveniently deny.

The situation of saving humanity or not, and/or embarking on a better future, is largely based on themselves, but they deny this.

Attacks now of any sort, such as spiritual or just some harassment, will mean nothing compared to the everyday life that will emerge if people deny the rights violations that are coming.

We must stay steadfast, this is the battle of our generation for their freedoms and their lives. Others were blown to bits by bombs last lifetime. We must not be worthless and weak, and some people here, I tell you to take this seriously. Start excelling.

In the upcoming movie video game that is themed for this clown world, you have ALL been given cheat codes. You must use them. You cannot be removed from the videogame completely yet, but with these codes, you will be able to position yourself to keep growing towards the Truth while the system will re-assert themselves and crash itself.

Don't pretend life is very hard or this whole thing is too hard while in previous lifetimes people were blown to bits at 16 years old by shells under enemy rule.

The majority of people will cry loudly. What they don't understand is that we are here in the first place because humanity has sucked for 20 or more centuries, believed in lies, and has forsaken the roots to it's ascent.

For those who are here, use the cheat codes you have been given and remember to play this game in the best way you can and in your heart's content.
