

About Spiritual Warfare, Future of the World, New Ritual Schedule

HP Hooded Cobra 666

February 08, 2021

Greetings to all of our Satanic Warriors.

Times have been trying for many, that is true. But one has to also observe how things are going with the world right now. While many are sitting comfortably, thinking this whole thing with restrictions and so on, is poised to act solely as a solution for public health, they are deceiving themselves. Many people are short sighted and they don't care.

What is going on right now is a re-definition of historic proportions to the wealth, power, influence, and rules of life in their entirety. Things considered human since the inception of humanity are being shattered entirely. Many people do not understand how far this will go, but it is going to go further and further until this is stopped.

Often times when there may be a conversation between I and individuals, they think that any beliefs or worries about the future of this world through the pretext of Pandemics [or any other pretext] means one invalidates the reality of these events.

One would say, what one wants to do is relative. The existence of a blade does not necessitate you have to use it to stab someone. In the same way, a strongly debated and proved to be, fairly weak "Pandemic" is only a frivolous excuse to do all the crimes that are happening on society. Nor to reshape it and attack it to such extents.

People who don't know the information we do, they can't process the large picture of where this is going. If you're missing dots, you can't connect the picture. For a lot of people, they are programmed to deny new input and information.

They will see Billy Gates on TV telling them they are going to wear a collar that will deliver them electric shocks of a deadly nature every time they think naughty thoughts against the NWO, but they will deny this input of information, dismiss it as a joke, or simply not pay attention to it, say it's never going to happen and such nonsense. That's because they are brainwashed.

Their mind denies processing and input of the events that are happening. They don't want to accept the changes of this world or how these will affect them. Because they are scared and weak, or lack information.

At this point, anyone who believes that all of these things happen mainly for a "pandemic" and not for power intensification of specific classes and interest groups, are in the least, living in their own shell. Very short-sighted individuals.

The enemy has a very strict agenda that they are following. Events they cause or may happen are attempted to be struggled to be used within the context of this agenda. Everyone here knows its aspects. It's difficult after one wakes up and they see it manifesting in stages or instantly as it did presently. Many people are so shocked they can't fathom this. Others have dropped into a careless state of ignorance, as a victim of many things does after a lot of victimization.

There's a war against consciousness and humanity at large right now. People are enforced to become like drones that don't question any ramification, change, or new implementation that will directly affect their lives. The media, governments, and many other interest groups are collaborating against the Common Man.

Satanism is about humanity and is a humanist religion. Compared to other religions, which see humans as defiled, dirty, or in the case of Judaism, undeserving to even exist, Satanism is against that. We believe humanity has untapped potential and a lot of value. Despite how many people feel personally about what we do, we do this to help ourselves while helping the "Common Man".

Power to mankind and a shifting of power is going to happen throughout the Age of Aquarius. Many people are using this power they are given now in the most stupid ways, but this doesn't matter. Some people will always be stupid. This category may also be that of many people.

The enemy is clearly lying to everyone's face and they know humanity has found out. The majority of people don't believe half of what is going on. Others are censored entirely right now. If you speak against the upcoming global enemy tyranny that is plaguing this world, you'll be censored and marginalized.

We have to self-censor in the forum to avoid reasons of a takedown. Free Speech is under siege, and may even disappear as a human ability and right. But to precede this, free thought has to be abolished, and if we are to be optimistic, we are winning here. But the enemy holds the lines of communication tightly. But not forever.

When you see things like Macron questioning the Vaccine, that is because many people no longer believe the enemy narrative. There is also a large amount of people that understand this is all a lie, but they lie to themselves hoping that we will experience "Return to normalcy" soon. The reality is the more people conform to this agenda; we will never return to any normalcy. The enemy is going in for a decade long plan here, that has been planned for a very long time.

Generally people lack spiritual knowledge and this is fundamental in that they misunderstand how the enemy operates. Many also lack fundamental knowledge on how the universe works, about quantum mechanics, and how our perception affects the world. The enemy knows these all very well.

For example, many countries have these ideas flowing in them: People are dirty, hate your fellowman, other people are infectious, don't relate to women, don't start families, hate men, get locked in yourself, and many other things. These overall, do not need to be enforced, but are psychological warfare projections by the enemy, who carefully create these in the Media.

The plan of the enemy is isolated humans to fragment the power of the so called "Masses", once and for all. People will be alone, deluded, without a family, without owning nothing. These are easy to control. The definition of a slave is if a man without rights and without any property, not even that of his labor. People own their labor now but that is the last thing they will own. Then one is a slave.

One way to do this is by making one enslaved and having them do work for society for nothing. This causes revolutions. The enemy decided to go the other way. To replace human labor entirely and make this civilization no longer humanity's own.

Sure, this may look like a long shot, but it's here.

The enemy tries to create a situation where people will trade in and sell their freedoms over frivolous necessities. It's not the first-time freedoms are being sold at the price of weakness or loaf of bread. Others will do so due to unemployment, others due to fear, and others because they aren't smart to understand they already sold them.

On the other hand, if people like us who understand all of these things, and who know anything, chose to remain without an action...The ramifications will be beyond understanding. Up to now people have been resisting and the enemy is clearly taking steps back in order to take steps forward.

Their agenda is exposed. People are secretly and publicly waking up and denying their advances. The next step if this goes well is to force them to take steps back. The last step is to kick their agenda and them off the cliffs.

There are a few people who don't understand the importance of this undertaking. Maybe they are too immature, self absorbed, or simply they haven't studied enough. Life as any human knew it more than 12 years old today, is poised for disappearance.

Weak servile humans also like to make all sorts of excuses about this situation. That it's all good, that if we conform it will pass, and that it is only a temporary phase where we will "Get our lives back". Such beliefs of NPC's are solely based on make good feelings. False reports of anything can continue this situation until perpetuity and worsen it at a moment's notice. The media will see to that.

Despite of how Satanists are geared, informed, educated, and smarter, so we can navigate through these measures or make good use of our time [meditation, studying, exercise, improvement, what have you]. I am proud we built progressively to that level. There will be more empowerment to come.

But we must not forget ourselves and where we began, as other humans, and one must not go full autism mode on humanity and say that this present state of affairs is to be dismissed or is desirable. The aspects of this [such as a solitary life] you can live at the same time where the world operates anyway.

While these times aren't bad for many of us or even though we are psychologically capable to manage, because many of us are introverts or people who like silence and a different kind of life. But the average human is right now being waged a fallout psychological and extinction war and we cannot allow this to happen.

Our social people are currently suffering. Most humans are very social beings and that is good, proper and in accordance to major aspects in nature. People need love, companionship, friends, sexuality, to go out and drink and engage in all the human activities since time immemorial.

Many elderly people right now are leaving this world crushed internally because they were separated from their grandkids. Other people who want to have children, cannot, because all these events have removed one's rights and one's courage to have children. Others are so mentally affected these desires are completely wiped out from them or got wiped out recently. The "Common Man" is being waged a war of retaliation by the so called Jewish "Chosen" of this world.

This is not about the quality of a people affirming itself for the greater good of the chain of command in a society. This is about shattering and destroying the common man and his consciousness as the last line of defense on what it means to be human. It's all part of dehumanizing mankind, so they can mold it to something else.

And it won't be long that when this layer of "Normal" people is shattered [that category generally holds civilization together] then they will come for everyone and anyone else. You can be an exemption but you won't survive either.

It will be 2040 and there will be some new strain going up, experts will say. I won't mention the other scenarios which mention that specific individuals are promoting an actual virus to cause an actual wipeout to cause this, according to them "Social Change".

2080, if we ever get there and if anyone still exists on this planet and it's not a heap of garbage, yeah, more strains. More strains for ever and ever and ever, until no humans remain on this planet. Then there will be another one. Humans will be locked in sterilized camps and two thirds of them dead, but wait, there will be more and more strains. Less and less constitutional rights, and more and more enemy control. Until the tipping point where nothing remains.

Claims about public health have been proven to be exaggerated excuses. The speed at which other agendas are being implemented shows the true purposes of all this, are not to help humans heal or protect them, but rather to enforce an entirely new standard of living which will be farmore controlled and slavery based than the previous one. Of course if people were asked for this, they would instantly reject it.

There's a secret in alchemy now, and for those who understand the laws of the spiritual universe, that when these "mutations" happen in specific things, and when a thing is "molding itself", that is the best time to actually hit it appropriately so it molds as one wants. Right now, society is ona molding state. It's not the metal it was before. It's melting apart. And that's why we need to do our Rituals now more than ever, to shape this as it goes.

Of course, since it's the case that both parties try to mold at the same time, not everything will be perfect at once or according to design. But if we win them over 8 from 10, they are as good as destroyed. Because people will see the defects of them as they already are, and consequently they will want the enemy's control to end permanently.

Going back to the quantum reality of the world, and the laws of spiritual levels, which many of you here know, and should apply in your life [this makes you a magician by other words], if we don't engage in breaking down these manifestations of the enemy, these are going to manifest. The more we destroy them, the less they will manifest.

There will be a new schedule soon to set even more stones in this creation we are making together. There will also be two rituals upcoming [not yet] which will have monumental effects. To everyone who has been observing and sensing the energies, but also the events of this world, we have made extreme impact. We can be proud of this, but we cannot rest on our laps as nothing is solidified yet and won't be for quite some time.

The universe will not sit there and think what is wrong or right. It's the laws of energy that will decide what reality gets to manifest and what does not. The enemy's creations have to be wiped out entirely and repressed until they get destroyed fully.

Many conspiracy theorists are busy complaining about all the results of these odious programs, revealed oftentimes in books like "The Bible", while ignoring both these quantum laws and the fundamental psychological programming these books have done to mankind. These books did not "predict" these things. They caused them, by mass brainwashing and mass manipulation of spiritual laws.

There's nothing holy here. Only predictive programming and use of quantum laws to enforce this thing on human beings. Due to lack of understanding of spiritual laws, people cannot understand that. We on the other hand, can understand all these things because we have been awoken by knowledge.

It's important now for all Satanists to understand that you're in this world and currently here because you need to partake in solving this urgent problem, right now. We are here to make sure that these transitional periods for humanity are not manifested how the enemy wants, but rather, how we want. Part of this is a physical aspect which we will work over time, but the foundation of all is the spiritual aspect of these affairs.

Mature people who understand should now have their priorities straight. Many people don't take Satanism as seriously as they should. You're given knowledge that is of the Gods, and yet, many people behave stupidly or deny these things. The enemy works overtime in the meanwhile, and the fate of the world is hanging from a few threads.

After this transitional period, which will last some years, is over with, the Age of Aquarius holds in store many wonderful things. See how much the life of humans did advance from the internet. The Internet became a hub of knowledge, a mass storage of human information and experience. New emerging technologies will further assist in this.

But the important thing is also to upgrade the meaning of being a man and expanding people's spiritual capacity and consciousness. We can do this together. We have achieved tremendous success which we could never achieve without anyone doing their Satanic duty. That duty is sacred. The more one's mind opens up spiritually, they will see the greater picture here.

I can see from the metrics of the sites that yes, humans are not devoid, stupid and empty. Some of them may be, because they were made this way. But not all of them are. Many are actively seeking meaning through this mess. During the Co-Vid situation, our coverage has tripled. But at the same time, the enemy has x10 their efforts in shutting us down. That's how wars go. You make advances and the enemy does their best to defend themselves.

This is for certain that the enemy who possesses far more AI and insight of searches or longings of humans through search engines, can see this through and that this is why they are on the censorship rampage on the shared knowledge hub of humanity, the Internet.

Do not get swayed away by the feeling of victory to stop fighting. This feeling is to motivate everyone to do the right thing, every single day. This is how this feeling will persist and victory will be manifest.

Concern not yourself about the present chaos if we are fighting this through with a strong order, because in the end we are winning. We see a full battle manifesting on all fronts now, and we are geared and have the knowledge to succeed. WE apply, and WE ARE WINNING.

-High Priest Hooded Cobra 666