

Advancing on Meditations and Delusions (Everyone Must Read)

Now this has to be addressed. Over and over this is a recurring phenomenon. Due to being oblivious on what it means to advance, how one advances, and what is to be expected from advancing, many people fall in certain loopholes that destroy them and delay them in advancement. People also loophole another one in many cases, because subconsciously nobody wants to really advance spiritually unless they deprogram themselves from filth and adhere themselves to it. Most people are stuck in different ways in regards to that. Then you have a few kikes around who of course, push this to the edge until everyone is destroyed. This is what jews do- they destroy Satanists and people who can overthrow them.

One major allegory in regards to that is an allegory that the Buddhists have destroyed and perverted, thanks to the enemy. This allegory is about how the "Devas" are going to "Deceive" you in the path of yours to become a "God". The Devas are not the "Demons" as many idiots say, but the Devas personify the powers of the Demons. When one meditates, one realizes they have powers. Powers to have sex, powers for wealth, powers to do anything (or so they think, and potentially it can be True).

This is a crucial stage and where most of people, when they find out about their ability to cause a few things (especially for new Satanists who are really backed up and protected by the Gods until they learn how to flap their own wings), they instantly think they are "Gods", someone "Important in their past life" and the endless list goes. While the powers may be actual and may be more or less, here, common sense is lacking.

The enemy has carefully lied that Satanism is about Egotism, being a sickening person of avarice, laziness and all that stuff. One can fall in either category, it doesn't really matter. If you pay attention between the lines, this is what they cause. They carefully instigated the factors that make Satanists act in that way, so that they will never, ever be effective, or form a unity that will destroy the enemy. This ensures their cancerous jewish system will keep going. Just look over to their side to see how much they cut this down short on their own, to understand this. Satanism by definition is for individuals that form a unity, not for a mass, however, the individuals have to adhere to the unity in order for the unity to adhere back to them. This can't go one sided.

These people are so easily controlled. One needs to just take a look around and see how these "selfish" people are so easily controlled, more than anyone "selfless" even. It's basically two sides of the same coin of a decayed personality.

Another thing. Many new people complain of serious "attacks" by the enemy when they are new. Little does it dawn to many people that it's not really the enemy doing these, but themselves- their own programmed fears, uncontrollable mind, and the programming the enemy put inside their own mind. This is an allegory of how all prisoners were locked in a prison cell for their whole lives, in a circle around an eye that was watching their every move and thought. After they were released from prison their fears that they were being constantly inspected, monitored and pounded on demand. Like post-traumatic stress, every sound to them sounded like a bullet. This is a typical thing happening to people and the enemy knows this, this is why they push totally the feeling of complete surveillance, or why "Jesus Monitors all your Thoughts" or "if your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out". People make this thinking part of who they are. The enemy does this on purpose. For what the enemy kike "god" cannot punish, people self-punish themselves and think it was "God". Easy method for control.

There are also certain individuals who are new and cannot see this. By nature, as with any other type of serious jewish magick, they will never see past this. Why Satanism hasn't defeated the enemy still, is to be recognized, this exact problem. Many low-level slobs who think themselves as almighty and mighty, but never pay attention or make sacrifices to actualize this vision, or can't work in unities. The enemy wants Satanism without order, chaotic, a cult of egopathy and this way, nobody will advance.

This can be easily traced down to many reasons. Many people have been suppressed and subjected all their lives, so now they want to create a big idea about how they are superior to everyone else, just to finally feel superior for once. For others, this manifests in some sort of egotripping until the end of time. Others also advance even further and in many advanced stages of advancement, this phenomenon is recurring. So many people get stuck into this, especially people who are "strong" or can be strong from nature. For others it can be other things. However, this sort of thing is largely coded in the Torah and is a major cause for many people to forget the purpose of this whole deal.

Your ego is sort of like a universal vehicle from which you are to experience reality. In fact, this is a tool and a beautiful one, made to be expanded and made into perfection. There is so much more beyond the "self" in the higher levels, but most people will never get to see these, or even the Gods themselves, because they choose consciously or not to live in the above paranoia. They just make this car a monster truck, add golden rims, try to step on other people's cars or something. Their monster truck ego is always better, they always know, they always have the solution. When faced with the reality behind all this, they are confronted and they fail.

This behavior ensures that people will never get actual contact with the Gods, and therefore, never advance. Their minds try to serve their own created delusion, and the "Gods" they see aren't even more intelligent than what they themselves are. Guess what, because they don't get in ANY actual communication with them, but are rather in a self-delusion. Better ask for guidance and messages, and the Truth, than to rather misguide anyone else or yourself.

This ensures you will be stuck and never advance past a certain level. This is also the enemy. The enemy knows that real power is not in egopathy, creating a bratty self or thinking of yourself as holy. This is flack they sell to others. Power is power in realizing Unity. Removing this pathological disease is also not "demoralization". This is from where REAL morale and REAL character are built.

In plain, certain people try to fight delusions like xianity or the delusions of the kikes, by creating more delusion. Little do they know that kikes are actual masters of delusion. Satanists relate to Saty-an for a reason though...Delusions just hamper our effort. And they are intolerable in many cases, especially when they harm this effort.

Why this thing becomes almost pathological to many should be evident. Small people always think of themselves so superior, Godlike and amazing. I have met with people of exceptional IQ's, beings who have power to send people to the afterlife with the wave of a hand, the Demons and Gods. None of these beings had a so called "big ego" in the stupid human sense. Many times, the "big ego" is not based on anything but consumerism, or just some sort of feeling or idea. In other words, it's not based in one's productivity or actual usefulness, but delusions.

And no, this is not positive or wishful thinking in order to advance. This is a new reality where people who can't do or be, are and be. This is no different than a video game, or another reality. People who are serious, responsible, have families, children, or are responsible of others, know what I mean completely. As for the usual complainers...Don't say I didn't warn you. You ensure you will become a better being by actually becoming better. Your ability to fill up yourself should be used to create a better you. Not a monstrosity. Selfishness in the worst and derogatory self does NOT advance anything. Being loving to one's self, and respectful of other human beings, with everyone being aware of who they are, is exactly this. The enemy wants people to be delusional about who they are, so they will never discover themselves in any way.

Keeping delusions in hand in trying to think one is perfect when they are not, is certainly going to just harm them in that they will never see and correct their mistakes. These people make easy prey for the enemy, alien and whatnot. Also, countless people have fallen into this trap, Satanists or whatnot. In the long-term, this creates strife, infighting and in the end, divisions. The ideas of capitalism are in this thing. It's just that money is now spiritual power, and instead of filling a bank account, people just fill themselves with delusion. This is not Capitalism; this is National Socialism. Labor, work and usefulness in the actual world are what matters, and the essence of the work and its weight. Not the illusions, comments, craps of ideas. Everyone in this world thinks themselves so overly important highly amazing, ineffable and irrefutable. This is what the Jewish system has created, and through which the West is falling, while the people are getting slowly down the drain sink without even realizing anything.

The Jews themselves are the ones who have created this behavior to fill in their gap for their apparent parasitism and uselessness. Others followed, like so many who were deceived into thinking that one builds a self by building lies around themselves, rather than their actual self. They think because they contextualized their crap in a "Superiority Complex" they actually became anything. They are still, no matter what they had, have or will ever have, excrement of existence. The death of anyone, or anyone's slavery, will NEVER change this fact. It's just who they are. A race of feces-eating garbage that is now sitting at offices and trying to convince humanity that they are useful. Not an actual good idol to follow.

Satan was dealing and is still dealing with World VIP persons, people with enormous IQ's, leaders, scientists and many other people most of which 'normal' people cannot, and will never, ever compare. Delusions of grandeur will not fill this gap. An average person with real understanding of who they are, and will to advance, will far surpass even the most talented people around who sit on their talents or illusions of grandeur.

No matter how close we are to the Gods and how much they love us, people have to get real and understand that the Gods are so far ahead, and take this chance we have with them with loyalty, humility and intensive unwavering faith. They don't have that much to gain from us, but we have so much to gain from them.

If the Gods were beings with a superiority complex and dumb selfishness, where would Humanity be at this point without any allies? People should mimic this paradigm of both might, strength, power and also compassion. The Gods show us compassion. Humanity has grown so retarded and yet, they are still here and they are knocking the door to help us. What is known for sure, is that they don't "need" anything from us, except of to be remembered and for us to understand their genuine love, and make worthy of the love they have given to us.

As for this gap many people feel, what will fill this gap, is actual work on one's self, advancing, and becoming the best one can be. Almost all the 20th, 19th centuries, did belong to Satan and Humanity advanced greatly. Only lately has this insanity been going. Satan has guided Pharaohs, world commanders and many other important and really prominent beings. While I can't speak on His behalf, because his forgiveness and understanding are without bounds and his love without end for His people, I can tell you this, from years of work. Do not abuse this, don't waste this chance and don't try to pick on the Gods. So many people also take their "Demon's" or "GD's" name for granted.

One last note. Seriously, certain people need to check themselves. Who do you think you are? Most people are just worthless Human beings who just believe what they see in Hollywood, that Satan will do anything just to buy them over, or that Satan is overly interested in crap. Guess what, he won't, and nobody has to tolerate inconsistent behavior like that. Satan needs workers, respectful people, people with heart and loyalty. These types of slobs who can't see this, they have to develop, or they will develop after smacking themselves, an understanding of that.

Most of them want to THINK they communicate with the Gods, to puff up their ego that they advance fast. This is all in the context of Western stupidity. If one is really interested in what we do, they rather really build themselves up, really adhere to what we do, shed their old skin of ignorance, and understand the order of things. For the pathological scoundrels, you can go and leave. This is their destiny anyway, with their behavior, and we aren't getting involved in their personal sphere of choices and life. With all this being stated, everyone is free to make their choices. Your freedom of choice doesn't always imply it will be a good one, so use this wisely.
