

Never Quit, Keep Striving

HP Hooded Cobra 666

July 24, 2012

This is for new members, but I'm posting this here too, maybe someone will benefit.

I am writing this post for a reason. The reason is, anything in Satanism and anything of worth in life comes in time and after dedication to it. When people join in Satanism, they have great expectations but due to lack of knowledge they want instant realization and gratification of those. In many who are able to feel it, Satan sends the messages of His existence blatantly when they start. But as a matter of fact, Satanism needs time. Most people come from a background of spiritual slavery, that keeps the mind repressed and parasitizes the soul. Because of this and because everyone carries a lot of unfulfilled desires, being on such a slave-like religion, people come to Satan waiting for gratification. Which will come, but only through effort. When one does the dedication ritual, asks for Father Satan's help to complete one's endeavors. This has to be understood and you have to get the True meaning out of it.

Not a meaning that will later on make you sad, because you misunderstood.

When someone is new, the Powers of Hell handle things for them. Although not everything, they handle as much as one needs to evolve further, in other words, necessary needs that one needs to work on.

We are expected like kids to grow and become competent adults. Satan is loving and nurturing and He is going to help someone a million times, if they try a million times. Do not expect favors from Hell, work hard on attaining these and the Gods of Hell will notice how much you try, therefore helping you. Don't be a lazy boomer. Since new people lack knowledge, they go on recklessly into using magick and think that if they fail, they are failures. Magick is a science and everything is mentioned in the JoS. For instance, people come from a fucked up background where their self-esteem and powers of the mind and soul were atrophied. Doing a spell right away has a big chance of failure. If one doesn't change their minds soon enough, they do this all the time and in turn fuck their self-esteem more. Lack of knowledge sets one for failure. EVERYTHING in the JoS has to be applied and worked out, not just the page about the love spell or the evil eye. It's widely known that this relies on how your mind works, and how powerful you are.

Constant meditation should be practiced and never be quitted. When one quits before a 40-day cycle, he is back at square one. This has to be avoided. When one starts meditation, the mind from its slumber wakes up. In many cases if not all, the mind is reacting like a total bitch. Emotions, thoughts, feelings, terrorism by one's own mind, have to be skipped and meditation has to be continued, despite of any mental feeling. When this happens, you have to stay as cool as possible and not let go. Just continue with it and this will go away. Even advanced meditators have this and this is normal, as this is a cleansing process. After a certain degree of time, one will feel relieved and cleansed. Meditating constantly will in turn increase your bioelectricity, get you away from depression, give you the mental edge above others and grant over time powers of the mind. People saying they have no time for meditation are just avoiding facing themselves through it. Who doesn't have 15 minutes? Sleep 15 minutes after than you normally do, that's easy. Or wake up 15 minutes earlier in the morning. Or both. The benefits are priceless.

Remember that it's a 'normal' desire to want to skip or avoid meditation, as the mind cowers. You have to be past this and face what's buried within. In a matter of days, you will feel instant relief. Since the mind doesn't recognize what the fuck you're doing to it, it will react in the most chaotic ways. You have to keep moving despite any and all setbacks.

You are not a quitter. Seriously. You had the guts to reach Satan and dedicate your soul and this was one of the hardest steps that most others won't ever take. You already excel as a Human being, so don't let yourself down. Don't accept to quit. Fall a billion times, come up a trillion times. Everything is within your grasp to fix. Father Satan and your Guardian Demons will teach you. Those who never quit will receive Satan's Promises. Take your time and take it easy with Satanism, easy on yourself and be understanding towards yourself. Don't be over judgmental and things will find their place on their own.

HAIL SATAN!!!!!!!!!!