This was to be expected, but this is a heads up.

There is some crap going on around, which is a script for android phones, and this person is spreading it as supposedly a "JoS App". It's not even a legit app or anything like that, but a script/advertisement virus thing. This message never got through, but this is to inform people, as they may try to mail it to you. It's not even a pirated app of the original, it's basically a script to destroy your phone, or spy on you or something.

The only official places to find these apps are here:

<http://www.josmarket.org/android-apps>

If you get these from anywhere else, you are on your own, and anyone could have opened the app and injected any code in it.

When these apps are installed, it requires NO PERMISSIONS! It asks nothing of your phone, let alone information, or whatever else.

Do not download or share apps, but from the mirror above, so you can be 100% sure what you are doing.
